Vice President of Premix Solutions

“We know to be successful in product development, you need a partner that goes beyond just delivering ingredients”

Dear Partners,

At dsm-firmenich we know that purpose is the key difference in driving consumer interest and differentiating your product on the store shelf. That's why we pour all our passion, expertise and innovation into every Premix we develop.

We know to be successful in product development, you need a partner that goes beyond just delivering ingredients. You need a partner passionate about making the world's growing population healthier and providing the broadest fortification capabilities, so you can fuel your consumers' highest health ambitions.

A partner that's motivated by streamlining your operations, supporting your business growth and getting you to market faster.

This requires a consumer-led approach paired with unmatched expert services across multiple market segments and applications that can uncover and guide you through product development pitfalls before they happen, saving you time and resources.

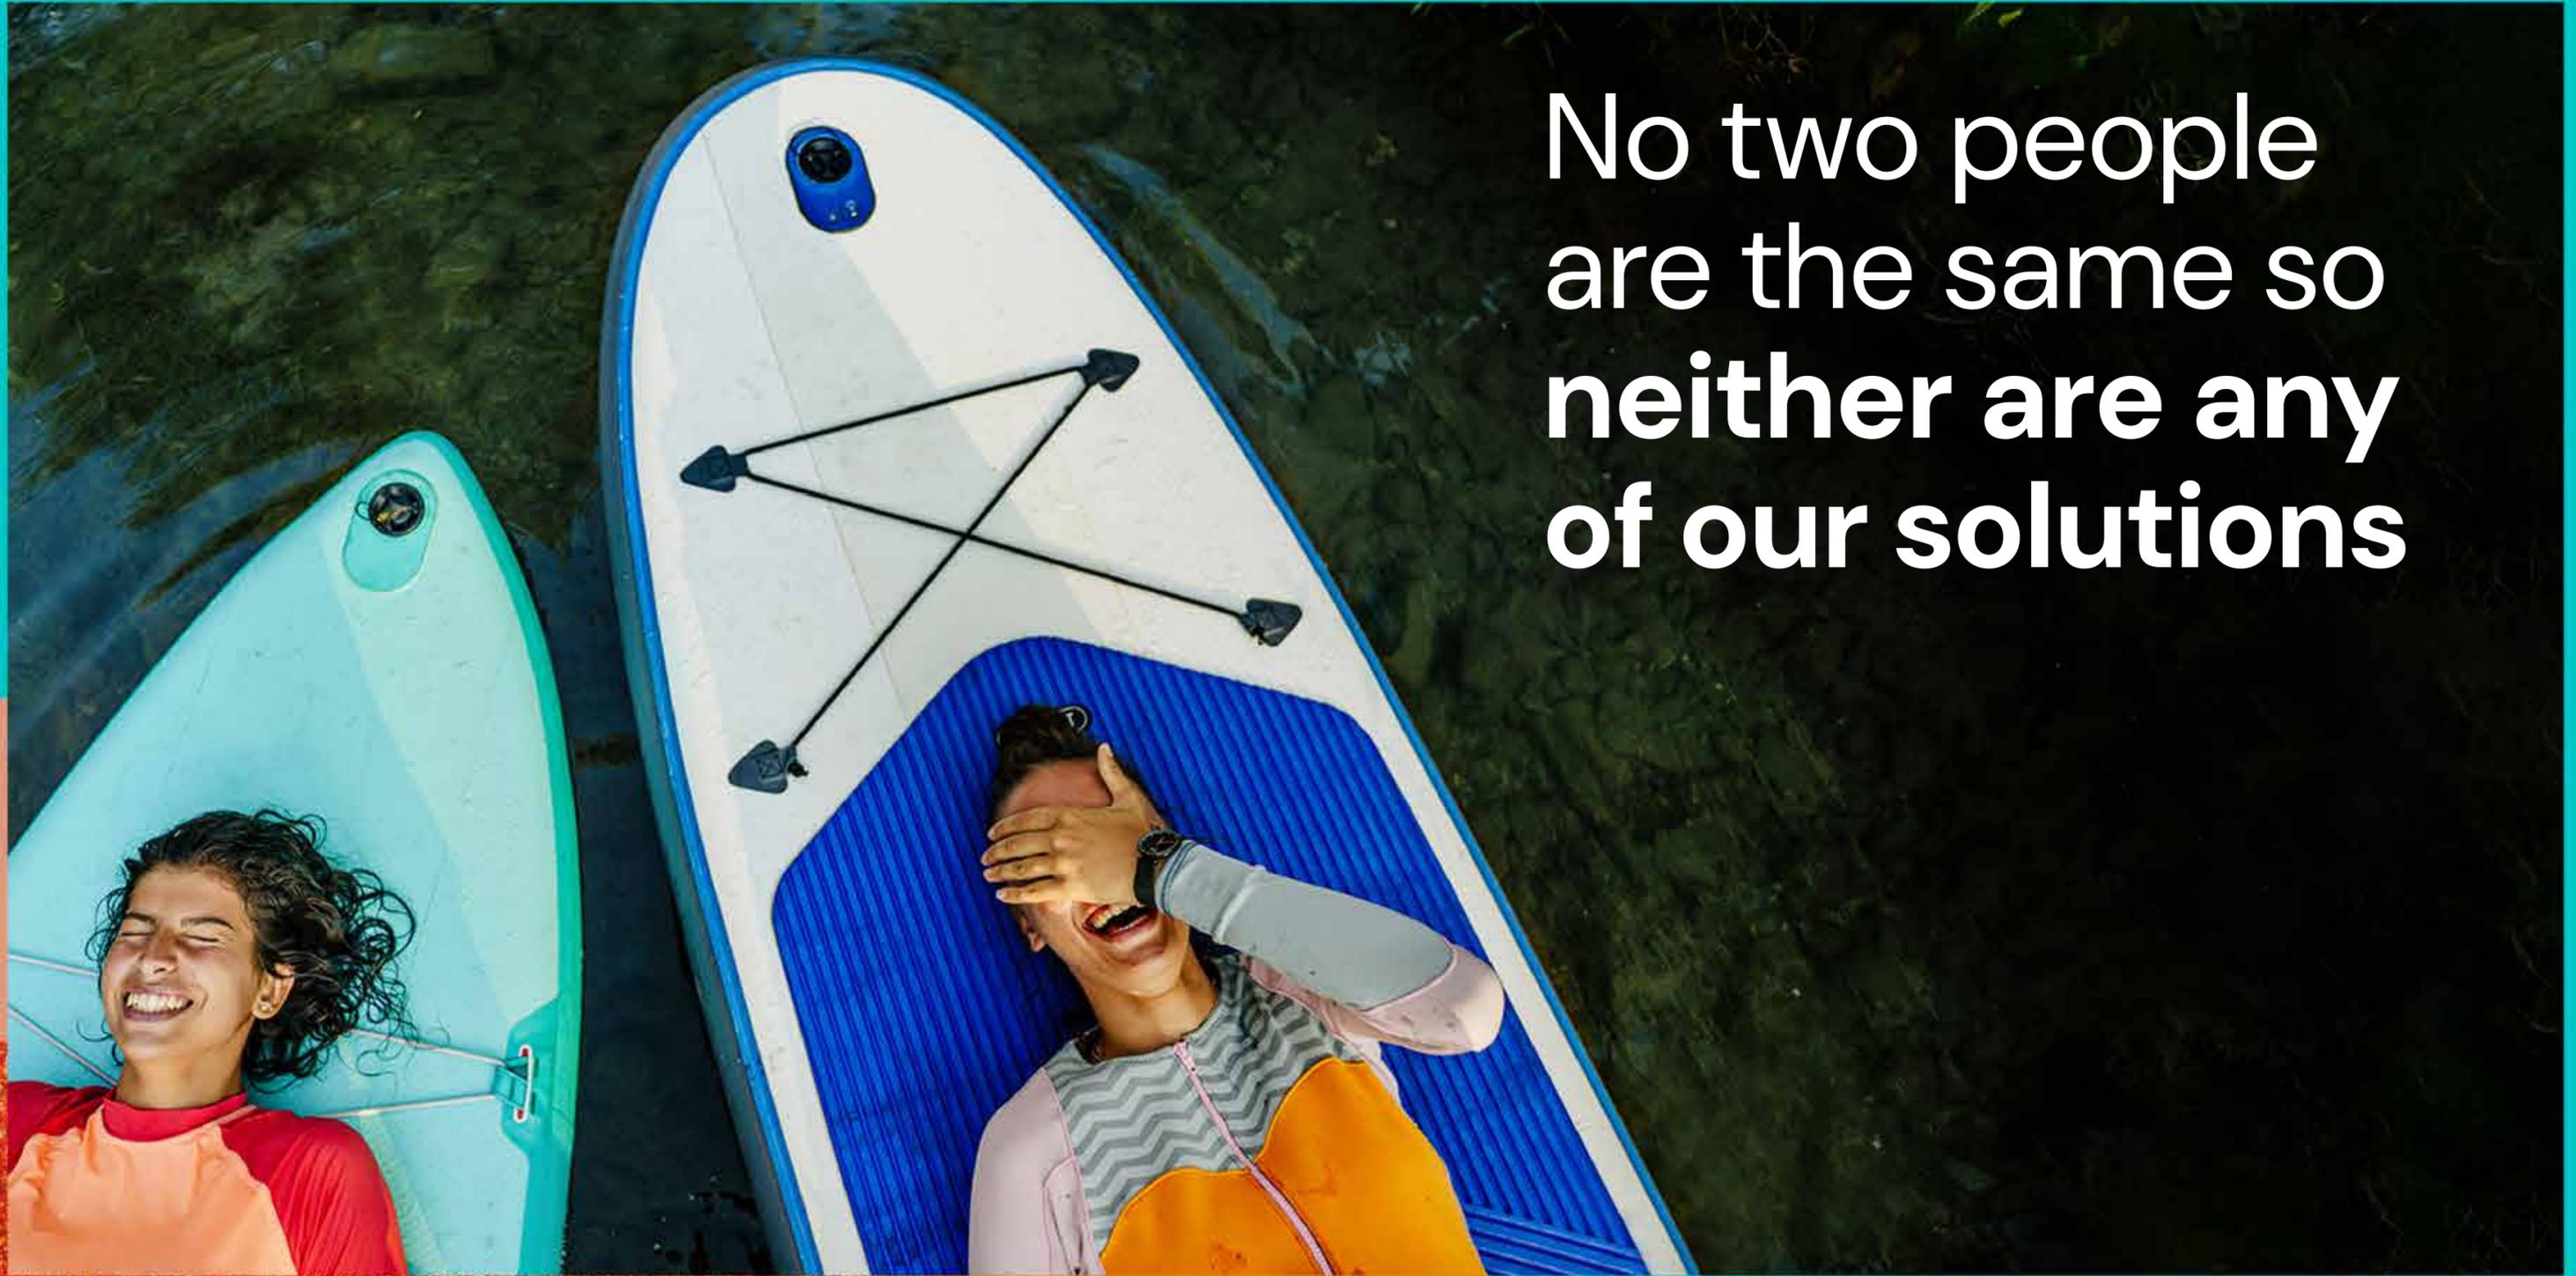

All delivered with the quality and peace of mind you deserve from a partner you can trust. It takes more than ingredients to deliver breakthrough consumer-inspired Premix solutions, it takes an innovative and reliable purpose-led partner.

Connect with us today to see what's possible, because where others see products, we see purpose.

Kind Regards,

Michel Meertens
Vice President of Premix Solutions
